OUR PORTFOLIO

We have in our portfolio different natural stones from India.

PRODUCT FORMS

We can provide you natural stones in different forms.

STONE TEXTURE

TOP SURFACE

We offer stone in a variety of finishes for you to choose from, based on your desired look, feel and application. Apart from tried and tested finishes, our zeal to explore has also led us to discover innovative finishes which give these stones a new avatar.

BOTTOM SURFACE

The base of the stone is available in different formats depending on the manner in which it is processed. Any of these may be selected in accordance with the purpose or process of application.

NATURAL / RIVEN

Stone blocks are ripped with the help of a hammer and chisel along their line of cleavage to reveal the natural grain & texture. This finish gives an undulating surface, showcasing its unique character.

SAWN

The sawn/machine cut finish is created in stone with the help of diamond disc teeth. The resultant finish has a regular surface which may have small undulations and furrows which are not visible, but can be felt with touch. Sawn cut stone slabs or tiles offer a uniform thickness.

HONED / POLISHED

The surface of the naturally finished stone is buffed with a series of abrasive tools to make it flat, smooth and consistent, and with considerably decreased porosity. The sheen and degree of smoothness remain permanent as the result is achieved through natural buffing and not through chemical coating.

SANDBLASTED

This finish is achieved through blasting silica sand repeatedly against the material through an air gun, thus creating small craters on the surface. The color of the stone is also highlighted along with the smooth abrasion. The treatment can be done on any surface, be it natural, sawn or honed.

HALF HONED

As the name suggests, the stone obtains a beautiful blend of a partially honed and a partially natural surface.

SHOTBLASTED

Shot blasting involves blasting of the stone surface under factory conditions with small iron balls at high speeds. It provides a uniform uneven surface with relatively bigger craters.

TUMBLED / AGED / RESTORED

This is achieved by vibrating small pieces of other, harder stone or media with the target stone to achieve an archaic/worn appearance. The surface and edges become smooth and rounded, which makes the stone look gracefully aged.

FLAMED

This finish is created by emitting a high-speed flame over the stone surface. The temperature shock causes the eruption of the grains on the surface, and the surface becomes rugged and irregular with no sharp edges. The colors of the flamed stone are usually less intense and more toned down than the colors of polished stone.

BRUSHED / ANTIQUE

Brushing the stone surface with hard bristles gives it a smooth textured finish. Through this process, the color of the stone also gets enhanced.

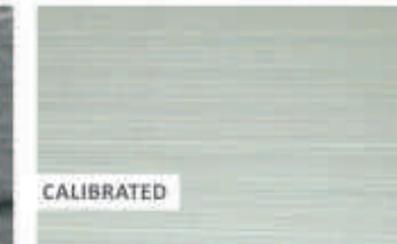

BUSH HAMMERED

This finish is created by hitting the material manually or mechanically with a masonry tool called a bush hammer. Bush hammering generates uniformly distributed craters of different sizes over the surface, resembling naturally weathered rock.

ROCKFACED / MUSHROOM

This finish is achieved by manually chiselling out the edges of the stone with controlled blows. The mushroom finish gives stone a distinctive rustic appearance, with relief and irregularities.

CALIBRATED

Extra material is removed with a stone calibration machine. With the right blade, grooves are created to maintain thickness and form this texture. This texture is used only on the bottom surface.

EDGE CUTTING STYLES

Textures available on the edge: Tumbled, Honed, Flamed, Sandblasted, Shotblasted, Brushed, Velvet

Handcut

Keep it natural, cut by hand. It is tapered so ideal for tiling and cobbles with rough inter-tile spaces.

Straight Handcut

This is handcut edge without tapering, generally used when showing the crisscross of table tops, steps or palisades.

Machine Cut / Sawn

Sawn by machine. Ideal for tiling with smooth or minimal inter-tile spaces.

Chamfered / Beveled

Edges are angled, which makes the sharp edge smooth. Chamfering can be done at different angles as per requirements, for example 1mm, 2mm, 3mm, etc.

Full Bullnose

The edge is convexly rounded. A perfect product for stair treads, countertops, etc.

Half Bullnose / Owl's Beak

Half rounded edge are in between straight cut and full bull nosed edges.

1/4 Round

Minimal rounding is done to remove the sharpness of the straight-edged tile.

Coping Edge

Top your wall or pool to make a statement.

Chisel

This gives the stone edge a rough yet uniform surface with chiseled texture.

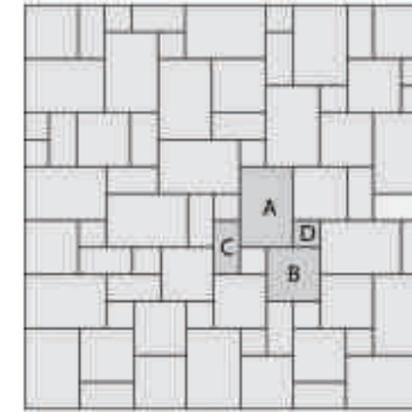

Broken (Top View)

Break free from geometry! Naturally broken, used for crazy paving in flooring or cladding.

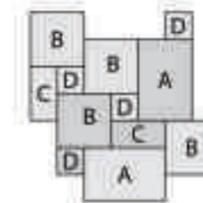

TILE PATTERNS

Different tile patterns are formed with different tile sizes as per customer requirements. For example, an opus pattern can have sizes 60 x 40, 40 x 40, 40 x 19.5, 19.5 x 19.5. Small modifications in tile sizes can always be made. Completely new tile patterns can be tailor-made too.
